

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

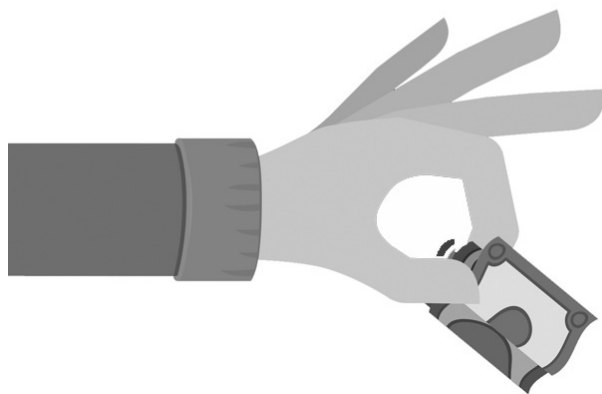

CONTENT

• Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

How can you help out?

Learning Outcome

Describe the reasons for or results of events or actions in spoken or written texts, in work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Have you or anyone you know raised money for a cause?
- If you could start your own charity, what would it be for?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about social issues and the arts.
- I can write about things that happened, were happening or had happened.
- I can contrast the main idea of a statement using words like although.

Let's Explore!

Malala blogged for the BBC.

* The "BBC" is the British Broadcasting Company.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Today's activists are an eclectic bunch. Though a lot of activists are famous people with money, anyone who has a passion and the drive to help others may become an activist. It is not only famous artists who become involved in activism.

Darius Weems is restricted to a wheelchair and has had Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy since he was five. Because he had lost his brother to the same disease he decided to raise awareness about the disease. He had the idea to make a documentary about DMD. Although he had not succeeded in getting his wish of having his wheelchair "jazzed up", he made a journey from Georgia to California in it. The film "Darius Goes West: The Roll of His Life" raised 1.5 million dollars for DMD research.

Christopher Yao is another young activist who started Kids Change the World. This organization provides free educational tools and medical help. Christopher's organization inspired 15,000 students to become leaders in their communities. The organization helps educate various medical facilities.

However you become an activist doesn't matter. Another activist known around the world is Angelina Jolie. When Jolie was filming Tomb Raider in Cambodia in 2001, her eyes were opened to the world around her. She had been to The Office of The United Nations High Commissioner of Refugees when she started the Jolie-Pitt foundation. The foundation then donated one million dollars to Doctors Without Borders which was created by doctors and journalists in 1971 to help the less fortunate with malnutrition, control epidemics and help victims of natural disasters.

In 1997, Malala Yousafzai was born in Mingova, Pakistan. She was attending the school her father founded when an obstacle arose. Even though the Taliban tried to take control and threatened to deny Malala and other girls an education, Malala persevered. In 2009 she began a blog for the BBC about her experiences which gained public attention. In 2013 she was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize and the next year she won.

Even if you don't have the financial means to become an activist, you can create an organization that gets people involved in the many issues that exist.

Let's Practice!

What inspired their work?

Instructions: Proofread the sentence. Circle the incorrect word. Write the correct word above the incorrect one to complete the sentence.

1. He maded a journey from Georgia to California in his wheelchair.
2. The film "Darius Goes West: The Roll of His Life" raist 1.5 million dollars for DMD research.
3. Christopher's organization inspiring 15,000 students to become leaders in their communities.
4. When Jolie was films Tomb Raider in Cambodia in 2001, her eyes were opened to the world around her.
5. She had be to The Office of The United Nations High Commissioner of Refugees when she started the Jolie-Pitt foundation.
6. The foundation then donating one million dollars to Doctors Without Borders.
7. In 1997, Malala Yousafzi was borned in Mingova, Pakistan.
8. She was attending the school her father founding when the Taliban attacked her.

Let's Practice!

In contrast ...

Instructions: Use the phrases to correctly complete the sentences. Only five of them are correct. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

Though a lot / Although he had / Through a lot / Even though / Allthough the had /
Even if you don't / Even when / Even though there

1. _____ of activists are famous people with money, anyone who has a passion and the drive to help others may become an activist.
2. _____ not succeeded in getting his wish of having his wheelchair "pimped out", he still made the journey.
3. _____ the Taliban tried to take control and threatened to deny Malala and other girls an education, Malala persevered.
4. _____ have the financial means to become an activist, you can create an organization that gets people involved in the many issues that exist.
5. _____ are many issues to support, you need to try to find something that really resonates with you.

Extension Activity

Watch a video about a modern activist.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Reread the text and choose one of the activists mentioned.
- Go online and find a video about their activism.
- Watch the video and take notes on keywords and phrases.
- Create a poster advertising the video and using some of the keywords and phrases.
- Show the poster to friends and ask them if they would watch the video based on what they see on your poster.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I watch a video about social issues.

☐ ☐

I take notes on the keywords and phrases.

☐ ☐

I create a poster advertising the video.

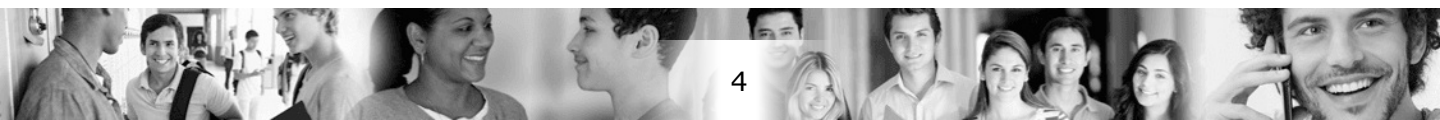

☐ ☐

I show the poster to friends and convince them to watch the video.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- eclectic (adjective): deriving ideas, style, or taste from a broad and diverse range of sources
e.g. Today's activists are an eclectic bunch.
- wheelchair (noun): a chair fitted with wheels for use as a means of transportation
e.g. Darius Weems, who is restricted to a wheelchair, has had Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy since he was five.
- Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy (noun): a severe form of muscular dystrophy caused by a genetic defect and usually affecting boys
e.g. Darius Weems, who is restricted to a wheelchair, has had Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy since he was five.
- jazzed up (adjective): modification of something to make it stand out and look attractive e.g. He did not succeed in getting his wish of having his wheelchair "jazzed up".
- malnutrition (noun): lack of proper nutrition
e.g. Doctors Without Borders was created by doctors and journalists in 1971 to help the less fortunate with malnutrition, control epidemics and help victims of natural disasters.
- epidemic (noun): a widespread occurrence of an infectious disease in a community at a particular time
e.g. Doctors Without Borders was created by doctors and journalists in 1971 to help the less fortunate with malnutrition, control epidemics and help victims of natural disasters.
- to deny (verb): to refuse to acknowledge or admit the truth
e.g. The Taliban tried to take control and threatened to deny Malala and other girls an education.
- to persevere (verb): to continue to do something even though it is difficult e.g. Even though the Taliban tried to take control and threatened to deny Malala and other girls an education, Malala persevered.
- to nominate (verb): propose or formally enter as a candidate for election or for an honor or award e.g. In 2013 she was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize and the next year she won.

Learning Points

The Narrative Tenses

You can use narrative tenses when you want to tell a story.

When you want to talk about situations that happened at a certain time in the past or you want to tell a story, you can use the Simple Past, Past Continuous and Past Perfect verb tenses. These tenses are the most common narrative tenses and each has a different use and meaning.

The Simple Past is used for:

- completed actions in the past, this is used with definite times in the past

I brushed my teeth, got dressed, and left the house.

- past habits

I went to ballet classes every evening when I was a child.

You can also express past habits with used to or would

- used to:

- for habits that happened in the past but not anymore
- this cannot be used with actions that only happened once
- can be used with both states and actions

She used to bake cookies every Friday.

She used to like eating dark chocolate.

- would:

- used for past habits but not used for past states

She would bake cookies every Friday.

She would enjoy eating dark chocolate.

You can use the Past Continuous for:

- background actions

When I left home that night it was snowing.

- an action that was happening at a time in the past

I was eating dinner at 6 o'clock last night.

- interrupted actions

Lara was taking a shower when the phone rang.

- unfinished actions

Learning Points

I was reading a book last night. (the book isn't finished)

- repeated actions (usually something that we found annoying, used with "always")

He was always forgetting his keys and getting locked out of the apartment.

- temporary situations

Roberto moves a lot because of his job. He was living in Germany last month.

You can use the Past Perfect to:

- show that an action happened before another in the past

I didn't eat anything for dinner because I had eaten a late lunch.

- add style and variety in a narrative

I took a shower, watched a movie, and went to bed.

I went to bed after I had taken a shower and watched a movie.

Both sentences above are correct. Instead of expressing everything in the Simple Past, you can add variety to your sentences by using the Past Perfect as well.

Learning Points

Concession Clauses

You can talk about surprising or unexpected situations by using concession clauses.

You can use a concession clause to express something that is the opposite of the idea in the main clause. It can be something surprising or unexpected based on what you know of the main clause.

For example:

Although she was afraid of snakes, she held one around her neck for a picture.

It is unexpected that this person would want to hold a snake because she is afraid of them.

You can use other words to express concession. You can use:

although though

even though even if no matter (followed by a wh- question word)

however (despite anything to the contrary) whatever (no matter what, used sometimes) as (when the structure is adjective + as + be)

Examples:

Although/ Though/ Even though the trains were delayed, everyone managed to get to work on time.

Even if I knew how to speak French, I wouldn't want to visit France.

No matter how hungry I am, I will never eat my sister's cooking.

However difficult your life may be, there is always someone out there with more problems.

Whatever his intentions may have been, he greeted us as friends.

Rich as he was, he hardly spent any money.

Examples:

- Though a lot of activists are famous people with money, anyone who has a passion and the drive to help others may become an activist.
- Although he did not succeed in getting his wheelchair "pimped out", he did make a journey from Georgia to California in it.

